See the solid and durable school shees for children and misses Frank A. Rell offers at 85c to $1.76. BROKDWAY THEATER.

Miss Turner is well known to be a past master in the art dramatic, she is wonderfully capable little actress most winsome comedienne and is pos-essed of a very pleasing and tuneful roice.

In the plays selected for Miss Turmer this season an effort has been made to harmoniously blend all the secomplishments of Miss Turner into one harmonious whole and give ample apportunity for the displaying of those talents which have made her justly fa-

The Volunteer Organist.

The Volunteer Organist, which con to the Broadway theater on Saturday, Nev. 13, matinee and night, is a pastoral play of ten years' appreciation by the theatergoing public and hids fair to outlive all of its contemporaries. Every effort has been made by the management to free this play from the usual melodramatic devices which are so conspicuous in so-called pastoral plays. The constant endeavor of the author was to write a culetly moving to the Broadway theater on Saturday author was to write a quietly moving play which would be essentially clean and moral in its tone. That these qualities are duly appreciated by the public is evidenced by the liberal patronage extended to the play during its ten years of success.

Third Degree Cancels Date. The Third Degree, which was to appear at the Broadway theater tonight, has cancelled the engagement and will not show there. Manager Jackson received a telegram Thursday night saycelved a telegram Thursday night saying the company could not come to Nerwich on account of a change in booking. Occasionally such changes are made, but usually far enough in advance so the local managers are not played in an embarrassing position with the patrons of the theater. The company will come here later in the season. Those who have purchased tigkets will have money refunded by presenting them at the theater ticket office.

THE AUDITORIUM.

Steady increase in attendance day after day stamps the approval of the theatergoers on the bill running at the Auditorium the present week.

Mickie Feeley, the wonderful little tumbler, who lets a thirty-five pound table fall on his bare head at every performance, keeps the audience in fits of laughter during his pantomime work and in amazement during his dare-devil dives and falls.

Dan Barrett, the original Irish comedian, is a scream throughout the entire sketch presented by himself and company.

The cordial reception given Miss Rose at every performance proves that the public of Norwich have made her a favorite. Her finished technique and clever interpretation of musical masterpleces wins deserved appreciation. Rich and Rich, The Pattering Pair, hand out a breezy line of snappy stories interspersed with burlesque melodrama engrammatic.

ries interspersed with burlesque melo-drama epigrammatic.

The last two days of the week Miss Morrelle will render Love's Dream.

The most wonderful trick picture ever produced will be shown Friday and Saturday only and is entitled Princess Nicotine, which has caused more discussion among photographers than any other. It has been fully described in the Scientific American, Collier's Weekly and Saturday Evening Post a few weeks back.

BREED THEATER.

Mystery of the Sleeper Trunk, Sensa-

The great amuggling picture entitled The Mystery of the Sleeper Trunk was shown to a large and delighted audience last evening at the Breed theater, and the thrilling and sensation al events that follow each other in rapid succession make the picture one of great interest. Pus picture closes with one of the most dramatic climaxes imaginable and aitogether the picture is filled with many natural events, at the same time retaining the many threads of the interest story.

CLOCK WOULDN'T STRIKE And So a Groton Housewife Burne

Her Baking.

A family in the interior, a few miles distant from the village of Groton, is just recovering a normal state of mind after a mistake in the operation of a new cook stove. The stove was installed by a merchant from a nearby village, who informed the family in the way of a joke, that the oven thermometer, a modern contrivance for registering the temperature of the interior of the oven, was a clock, a positively new idea, which would strike loudly when the article under the baking process was ready to be removed. The statement appeared plausible, as the face of the thermometer was numbered to 12, and had every appearance of a timepiede.

The idea that this assertion would be taken for full value did not occur to the merchant and he gave the joke no more thought. A few days after the stove had been signs a therewere no more thought. A few days after the stove had been given a thorough trial the head of the household made trial the head of the household made his appearance at the merchant's place of business in a towering rage. The merchant, after listening to a lengthy tirade, pleasantly asked his visitor the cause of his agitation. "Well," was the reply, "that darned stove you sold me has burned up everything my wife has tried to cook and we ain't had anything fit to eat for two or three days. The peaky elock don't strike." Then the mechanism of the thermometer was explained.—New London Telegraph.

COMPULSORY VACCINATION Ended in Bridgeport Schools-Board of Compulsory vaccination among the pupils of the public schools is an ob-solete rule and Major Boudren and the members of the Anti-Vaccination so-ciety, who made a fight for just this end before a meeting of the board some months ago, can now rejoice. At the meeting of the board of education on Monday evening all rules appertaining to vaccination previously adopted were to vaccination previously adopted were rescinded.

At one time a rule was in force that all children entering the schools must be vaccinated. This prevailed for many years. Then came the agitation against compulsory vaccination led by Thomas W. Boudren. A modification of the rule resulted and where parents sent a personal letter to the superintement to the effect that they objected to vaccination the child was permitted to enter. The superintendent read a number of these letters Monday evening and it was found that to compile a list of the children whose parents object to them being vaccinated any one where children are vaccinated would require a big corps of special clerks.

would require a big corps of special clerks.

After discussing the matter, Dr. Monahan suggested that all previous rules on the subject be rescinded and the motion was carried. The physician stated that in the eyent of a contagion the matter could be handled but at this time the board has one rule while the parochial schools have another and it appeared all children should be treated alike. The vote to rescind was unanimous, although Attorney Cullinan stated that in spite of the action of the board of education the board of health could come in at any time and under a state law compel the school children to be vaccinated.

FRUIT-GROWING STATE.

At the annual meeting of the Con-

At the annual meeting of the Connecticut state board of trade, held at New Haven recently, one of the principal addresses was made by J. H. Hale, his subject being: What Are the Possibilities of Connecticut as a Fruit Growing State?

Mr. Hale said in part:

The farmers and the people of Connecticut are just beginning to wake up to the possibilities of this old state in that direction. Perhaps I ought not to say the farmers are, because they are not the only ones that are waking up. But all New England is waking up and when gentlemen like you, representing the boards of trade, manufacturing, commercial and financial interests of the state, finally wake up to the importance of agriculture and horticulture to a state like Connecticut, as I see you are doing from the fact that you have set this topic on your programme, there is going to be something doing. It is time.

We know a good deal more than we did a few years ago. We have got as "I suffered from eczema on my hands, arms and feet for about tweive years, my hands and feet would swell, sweat and itch, then would become callous and get very dry, then peel off and get raw. I tried most every kind of salve and ointment without success. I tried several doctors, but at last gave up thinking there was a cure for eczema. A friend of mine insisted on my trying the Cuticura Remedies, but I did not give them a trial until I got so bad that I had to do something. I secured a set and by the time they were used I could see a vast improvement and my hands and feet were healed up in no time. I have had no trouble since. Charles T. Bauer, R. F. D. 65, Volant, Pa. THE VALLEY OF VISION.

(Isaiah xxii, 1 and 5.)

Over what peaks does it lie, the wonderful valley of vision.

Withholden afar in the realm of the Spirit of Rest?

Is it a verdurous cleft in the shadowy mountains clysian.

Hidden by mist and cloud where the sups go down in the west?

I never have found the place, the wonderful valley of vision.

Though seeking for long the path that leads to its bubbling streams;

The mountains unyielding stand, they laugh at my search in derision.

Tet ever in faith I seek the hidden valley of dreams.
